EXTRAMURAL RESEARCH SUPPORT

Awarded

National Longitudinal Study of Violence and Substance Use in the United States 2027-2031

Role:	Co-Investigator (Multiple Principal Investigators: Sari Reisner, Kristi Gamarel)
Funder:	National Institute on Drug Abuse (NIDA), National Institutes of Health (NIH)
Mechanism:	Research Project Grant (R01)
Award No.:	R01 DA066104
Total Costs:	$3,899,971
Aims:	Estimate the prevalence of, and explore the prospective associations between, gender-based violence, social safety threats, protective factors, and behavioral health outcomes in a national cohort of adults, using a community-centered digital cohort model to inform public health interventions.

Diagnosis-Agnostic Sequence Mining to Detect Bipolar-Pattern Suicide Risk and Structural Inequities in Adolescents and Young Adults 2026-2028

Role:	Principal Investigator
Funder:	National Institute on Minority Health and Health Disparities (NIMHD), National Institutes of Health (NIH)
Mechanism:	Loan Repayment Program (L70), Facilitating Opportunities in Cutting-edge Science (FOCUS)
Award No.:	1L70MD021651-01
Total Costs:	$31,013
Aims:	Develop a machine learning algorithm using a national electronic health records database to identify sequences of healthcare utilization, prescription medications, and diagnostic codes that are probabilistically indicative of prodromal bipolar disorder in adolescents and young adults. These sequences will be taxonomized in collaboration with community members and psychiatrists, and a case-control study will estimate each sequence's relative risk for future suicide attempt and death by suicide.

Under Review

Quantifying Multi-Agent Re-identification Risk in Open and Public Datasets 2027-2029

Role:	Multiple Principal Investigator (with Stephen Hutt and Sari Reisner)
Funder:	Schmidt Sciences, in collaboration with Google DeepMind, the Cooperative AI Foundation, the Advanced Research and Invention Agency (ARIA), and Google.org
Program:	Scaling AI Safety for a Multi-Agent World
Total Costs:	$300,000
Aims:	Assess whether cooperative teams of artificial intelligence (AI) agents can re-identify research participants in open and public datasets. Using rarity metadata from existing public health and education datasets, we will generate a synthetic population, then select a target individual and random samples of varying size. Iterative simulation trials across multi-agent structures will quantify the accuracy, precision, and recall of agents' performance in correctly re-identifying the target or excluding it from the sample. Findings will inform privacy-protective tools for research with human subjects (e.g., a sandbox that strips high-risk identifiers from repository-bound datasets), supporting open science as AI capabilities continue to advance.

In Preparation

Pre-Diagnostic Electronic Health Record Trajectories and Suicide Risk in Adolescents and Young Adults with Emerging Bipolar Disorder

Role:	Multiple Principal Investigator (with Sari Reisner)
Funder:	National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH), National Institutes of Health (NIH)
Mechanism:	Research Project Grant (R01)
Aims:	Identify pre-diagnostic electronic health record (EHR) event sequences preceding bipolar disorder, organize these sequences into a clinically interpretable taxonomy informed by patients and clinicians, and quantify sequence-specific risks of suicide attempt and death by suicide among adolescents and young adults, using national EHR data with external validation in a health system cohort.
